CALL FOR CASES – EURO-CNS CME COURSE LEUKOENCEPHALOPATHIES,

7-9 December 2026, Amsterdam UMC (location VUmc), the Netherlands
O|2 Labbuilding, Auditorium

Do you have an interesting, challenging, or thought-provoking case to share?
We warmly invite you to contribute cases for the interactive "Bring Your Own Case" sessions during the course.

This is a unique opportunity to share challenging or thought-provoking cases, exchange ideas with colleagues, and engage in lively case-based discussion!

What Kind of Cases Are We Looking For?

Cases should relate to topics covered within the course and may include:

- Challenging or rare presentations
- Complex diagnostic pathways
- Interesting imaging or pathology findings
- Cases with unresolved questions or learning points
- Situations that stimulate discussion and audience interaction

How to Submit

Please send a brief case summary (1–2 paragraphs) to the Euro-CNS Secretariat: secretariat@euro-cns.com

At this stage, only a short description is required — full PowerPoint slides do not need to be submitted in advance.

There is no fixed submission deadline; cases will be reviewed as they come in by the program committee.
If you are unsure whether your case is suitable, please feel free to ask us for advice.

Session Format (15 minutes per slot)

- 7–8 minutes case presentation
- 7–8 minutes interactive discussion with faculty and participants

Presentations should be prepared in PowerPoint format.

Internet access will be available on site; however, due to potential firewall restrictions, presenters are strongly advised to bring a local copy of their presentation on a USB drive.

To encourage audience participation and diagnostic reasoning, presenters are kindly asked not to reveal the final diagnosis at the beginning, but instead guide the audience through the clinical work-up before disclosing the outcome or solution.

All submitted cases will be reviewed in advance to ensure alignment with the educational objectives of the session. Accepted presenters will be informed as soon as possible, while the final schedule will be circulated shortly before the course.
